Publisher’s Message and Call for Papers: The Launch of International Forum of Allergy & Rhinology

Wiley-Blackwell is pleased to announce the launch of a new title, International Forum of Allergy & Rhinology, in 2011. Jointly owned by the American Rhinologic Society and the American Academy of Otolaryngic Allergy (ARS-AAOA), this title is poised to become the premiere international journal in these growing fields.

International Forum of Allergy & Rhinology will serve as the only official publication of the ARS-AAOA, and its proscribed vehicle for publication of organizational funded research and scientific meeting presentations. The Journal will start as a bi-monthly publication with its first issue coming out in February 2011.

In order to serve the needs of the ARS-AAOA combined membership of over 3,000, the Journal will cover a broad range of topics including:

- Cranial base surgery
- Medical and surgical management
- Pathophysiology/epidemiology of respiratory tract disease
- Upper & Lower respiratory tract
- Unified airway
- Chronic rhino-sinusitis
- Allergy

In addition to publishing content from the ARS-AAOA membership and meetings, the Journal will serve as an educational tool for specialists in these fields.

The Journal will also accept unsolicited articles devoted to these specialties. All content is subject to peer review. An Editor has been selected, and will be announced soon. For information on submitting your research to this exciting Journal, please refer to the instructions to authors online.

Institutions can opt to receive complimentary online access to International Forum of Allergy & Rhinology throughout 2011 and 2012. Ask your librarian to Opt-in to Access.
