

GENERAL EDITORS

Roger S. Bagnall is professor of ancient history and Leon Levy Director of the Institute for the Study of the Ancient World at New York University. Before joining the NYU faculty in 2007, he was Jay Professor of Greek and Latin and professor of history at Columbia University, where he had taught for 33 years. During that time, he served as dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and chair of the Department of Classics. He specializes in the social and economic history of Hellenistic, Roman, and Late Antique Egypt. Among his books are Egypt in Late Antiquity (1993); The Demography of Roman Egypt (with Bruce Frier, 1994); Reading Papyri, Writing Ancient History (1995); and Everyday Writing in the Graeco-Roman East (2011).

Kai Brodersen is professor of ancient culture and president of the University of Erfurt in Germany. He has worked on Greek and Roman historiography and geography, inscriptions, oracles and wonder-texts, economic history, and the reception of the classical world.

Craige B. Champion received his graduate training in classics and ancient history at Princeton University. He is associate professor of ancient history and classics in the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs and former chair of the History Department at Syracuse University. He has published widely on ancient Greek and Roman history and historiography. He is the author of Cultural Politics in Polybius's Histories (2004) and editor of Roman Imperialism: Readings and Sources (2004). Professor Champion is also the editorial board member for historiography.

Andrew Erskine is professor of ancient history at the University of Edinburgh. Previously he held the chair of classics at the National University of Ireland Galway. He is the author of The Hellenistic Stoa: Political Thought and Action (1990), Troy between Greece and Rome: Local Tradition and Imperial Power (2001), and Roman Imperialism (2010). Among his edited books are Blackwell's A Companion to the Hellenistic World (2003) and A Companion to Ancient History (2009).

Sabine R. Huebner is Privatdozentin of ancient history at Freie Universität Berlin and a Heisenberg fellow at the Collège de France in Paris. Before that, she was a visiting research scholar at several institutions in the United States: Columbia University; the University of California, Berkeley; the Institute for the Study of the Ancient World in New York; and the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton. She has published widely on the social and religious history of the Greco-Roman eastern Mediterranean. Her work includes two monographs, Der Klerus in der Gesellschaft des spätantiken Kleinasiens (2005) and The Family in Roman Egypt (2011); a coedited volume, Growing Up Fatherless in Antiquity (2009); and contributions to the Oxford Handbook of Childhood and Education in the Classical World (2012) and Blackwell's A Companion to Families in the Greek and Roman Worlds (2010). Professor Huebner is also the editorial board member for social history.