Aims and Scope

Packaging Technology & Science publishes original research, applications and review papers describing significant, novel developments in its field. The Journal welcomes contributions in a wide range of areas in packaging technology and science, including:

- Active packaging;
- Aseptic and sterile packaging;
- Barrier packaging;
- Design methodology;
- Machinery and engineering for packaging;
- Marketing aspects of packaging;
- Materials;
- Migration;
- Environmental factors and sustainability;
- Ergonomics;
- Food packaging;
- New manufacturing processes and techniques;
- Testing, analysis and quality control;
- Transport packaging.
Vol. 33, No. 2, February 2020

CONTENTS

Research Articles

Development and validation of kurtosis response spectrum analysis for antivibration packaging design taking into consideration kurtosis
A. Hosoyama, K. Tsuda and S. Horiguchi ........................................ 51

Assessment of insulating package performance by mathematical modelling
M. Kucharek, L. Yang and K. Wang .................................................. 65

Migration of bisphenol a into food simulants and meat rations during initial time of storage
B. Stojanović, L. Radović, D. Natić, M. Dodevska, G. Vraštanović-Pavičević, M. Balaban,
Z. Stojanović and V. Antić ................................................................. 75

Paper submitted to IAPRI peer review stream

The effect of coplanar sensor spacing on determining the angular acceleration of vehicles
G. J. Cocchiola, A. Joodaky, G. S. Batt and J. M. Gibert .......................... 83
