Scope of the Journal

Papers in Palaeontology is a continuation of Special Papers in Palaeontology and includes papers that document the diversity of past life and its distribution in time and space. As a sister publication to Palaeontology, its focus will be on descriptive research, including the descriptions of new taxa, systematic revisions of higher taxa, detailed biostratigraphical and biogeographical documentation and descriptions of floras and faunas from specific localities or regions. Members and subscribers to Palaeontology will have free access to the online edition of the journal.

Copyright

The Palaeontological Association (Registered Charity) asserts copyright on all articles and images in its electronic and print publications unless otherwise stated. Articles or figures in this journal may be reproduced in print or electronic medium for teaching, and for non-profit educational and research purposes, without fees or further permissions, provided that acknowledgement of 'The Palaeontological Association' is given, and that the source of the reproduced material is quoted in full. The Association reserves the right to withdraw this permission without notice. Written permission is required from the Association for all other forms of capture, reproduction and/or distribution of any of its publications or items in its publications. Permission should be sought from the Executive Officer.

Disclaimer

The Association, Distributor and Editors cannot be held responsible for errors or any consequences arising from the use of information contained in this journal; the views and opinions expressed do not necessarily reflect those of the Association, Distributor and Editors, neither does the publication of advertisements constitute any endorsement by the Association, Distributor and Editors of the products advertised.