THE PHOTOGRAMMETRIC RECORD is an OPEN ACCESS AND A SUBSCRIPTION JOURNAL

READERS AND AUTHORS are reminded that The Photogrammetric Record publishes both subscription and open access papers. The distinction between the two is:

Subscription. Readers are required to pay for access, either by subscription (which may be through their institution) or by purchasing the paper online. The author of the paper pays no fee. This is the traditional journal publishing model.

Open Access. The article is free for all readers to access, whether they have a subscription or not. There is no cost when downloading the paper. In this more recent model, it is the author (or their institution) who pays a fee. With Wiley such an option is termed OnlineOpen.

We are pleased to note that the paper by Kehl et al. (Mapping field photographs to texture surface meshes directly on mobile devices) in this issue is the first in the Record to be published as an open access paper. Further details of publishing open access papers can be found on the journal’s website at:

INFORMATION FOR PROSPECTIVE AUTHORS

NEW SUBMISSIONS to The Photogrammetric Record should use the ScholarOne electronic manuscript review system, which is available on the journal’s website at:

In the left-hand column on the homepage, there are four links under FOR CONTRIBUTORS. Prospective authors should carefully study the third link, Author Guidelines, and especially the subsequent Instructions to Authors together with the Photogrammetric Record Template. Papers MUST conform to both these documents, which have been recently updated.

Once an author is ready to submit a new paper, click Submit an Article under FOR CONTRIBUTORS. This will take authors to the journal’s ScholarOne Manuscripts site:

Existing users of the system can log on immediately. New users can use the Register here link under New User? Once logged in, on the Welcome page choose the Author Centre (Reviewer Centre is for reviewers only) and follow the instructions on submitting a new manuscript on the Dashboard page. Note that the Instructions to Authors and Photogrammetric Record Template referred to above can also be found using the Instructions & Forms tab on the top bar of pages in this website.
