

Wiley is pleased to announce that starting January 2024, Prof. Natalia Vershinina, Prof. Bettina Bastian, and Prof. Bronwyn Wood, will be the Co-Editors-in-Chief of Gender, Work & Organization.

Prof. Vershinina is Professor of Entrepreneurship and Deputy Director for Research at Audencia Business School in Nantes, one of the Grande Ecoles in France. Natalia is an experienced researcher, teacher, PhD supervisor and journal editor. Her research cuts across diverse but complementary areas of entrepreneurship, diversity, gender, family firms, ethnicity, and social class. She actively contributes to the development of younger scholars by serving as a Mentor Associate Editor for Early Career Researchers who have won awards at conferences such as the Institute for Small Business and Entrepreneurship Conference in the UK, and the Research in Entrepreneurship Conference organized by the European Institute for Advanced Studies in Management in Entrepreneurship & Regional Development Journal and MENAGEN scholarly network. Natalia's editorial experience as an Associate Editor for journals like Entrepreneurship & Regional Development, International Journal of Entrepreneurial Behaviour Research, and more recently Journal of Business Research has equipped her with valuable skills needed to lead the journal into a new era of discussion and publication. She has an abundant experience of reviewing too being part of the reviewer board for Journal of Management Studies and Academy of Management Perspectives, and editorial advisory board of Journal of Family Business Management and the International Journal of Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

Dr. Bettina Bastian's research is situated in Global South with an emphasis on the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region. Her scholarly work includes publications in leading entrepreneurship journals and focuses upon gender, entrepreneurship, and sustainable development. Bettina has served as member of editorial boards of management and entrepreneurship journals and led editorial teams for multiple special issues. Bettina has been very engaged globally as well as within the MENA region in developing research capacities as a PhD supervisor, designing, and delivering research development workshops within business schools, and developing gender focused research networks. She is a seasoned mentor and regularly mentors early career gender and entrepreneurship scholars through the Middle East and North Africa Mentoring for Publication Program. Her career in higher education spans academic posts in Europe and the Arab world including the University of Bern, Switzerland; American University of Beirut, Lebanon; Royal University for Women, Bahrain, and most recently, American University of Bulgaria. Her leadership posts in higher education include senior university roles, such as Head of Academic Programs in Entrepreneurship, Associate Dean for Research, and Dean of the Business and Law Faculty. Bettina earned her PhD in Management from the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology (EPFL), Lausanne.

Bronwyn P Wood (Aisha) is an Associate Professor of Marketing at United Arab Emirates University in the UAE. She is originally from Aotearoa New Zealand (Pakeha + Ngāti Kahungunu), although she has lived abroad for around 20 years, mainly in Japan and the Arabian Gulf (Saudi, Oman, UAE). Bronwyn was, until recently, an Associate Editor and then Interim Editor in Chief, of the International Journal of Gender and Entrepreneurship. She is also a Senior Editorial Board Member of the Journal of Islamic Marketing, and an Associate Editor at the International Journal of Islamic Marketing and Branding. In addition to editorial experience, she is an active reviewer and engaged in supporting other researchers in their scholarly journeys. She serves as a Mentor in the MENA-

GEN programme, supported by Babson and run through the Institute for Small Business and Entrepreneurship's (ISBE, UK) Gender Special Interest Group. Bronwyn is especially interested in indigeneity, gender, intersectionality and (particularly) women's experiences as they navigate through life. This necessitates a wide-ranging approach to research which encourages perceptual and epistemological discussions of meaning and well-being, with social justice at its heart. She has also published as Aisha Wood Boulanouar.
