

International Wound Journal

Moving online-only in 2016

Bookmark it today

In an effort to best serve the needs of our authors, readers, and customers, whilst balancing environmental concerns, International Wound Journal will be moving online-only in 2016.

As well as significantly reducing the carbon footprint of printing and mailing, this transition reflects a wider trend in 21st-century scholarship where the great majority of usage is already online. It will also allow further investment in digital initiatives which will benefit the journal in the months and years ahead.
