

Paper Development Online Workshop
September 1st, 2020

Guest Editors:

Dr Andri Georgiadou (University of Nottingham, UK)

Professor Miguel Olivas-Luján (Clarion University Pennsylvania and Penn State University, USA)

Professor Dianna Stone (University of New Mexico, USA)

Professor Tanya Bondarouk (Twente University, Netherlands)

In line with the HRMJ Special Issue Call for Papers on Inclusion in the Digitalized Workplace (more information here: <https://bit.ly/3cevsDW>), we invite applications for a Paper Development Workshop to be hosted online on September 1st, 2020. The aim of this workshop is to provide authors with guidance and expertise in the development of their manuscript for potential submission to the Special Issue. Presentation at the workshop does not guarantee publication of the article nor will submissions to the special issue be limited to those that present at the workshop.

Application Process

Extended abstracts of 1,000 words should be submitted to andri.georgiadou@nottingham.ac.uk by August 1st, 2020. Your submitted abstract should describe the project and research question, theoretical contribution, research design and implications for practitioners. Authors will be notified via email on August 10th, 2020 and will be given details about the workshop's programme.

If you have any questions and inquiries, please contact Dr Andri Georgiadou, andri.georgiadou@nottingham.ac.uk.